Part 3. Principles of Family Support

NHCTF adheres to the principles of family support, developed by Family Support America, through grantmaking efforts. Please rate your program on each principle and let us know if you could benefit from training in any of the nine principles.

Principles of Family Support	Excellent	Fair	Poor	Not Applicable	Could your program benefit from training in this area?
Staff and families work together in relationships based on equality and respect
Staff enhance families' capacity to support the growth and development of all family members – adults, youth, and children
Families are resources to their own members, to other families, to programs, and to communities
Programs affirm and strengthen families' cultural, racial, and linguistic identities and enhance their ability to function in a multicultural society
Programs are embedded in their communities and contribute to the community-building process
Programs advocate with families for services and systems that are fair, responsive, and accountable to the families served
Practitioners work with families to mobilize formal and informal resources to support family development
Programs are flexible and continually responsive to emerging family and community issues
Principles of family support are modeled in all program activities, including planning, governance, and administration
